

Deanery Synod Report

Following the start of meetings following the pandemic, the Deanery Synod has met twice. The first meeting in October was the Deanery Lecture and was given by the Revd. Simon Reed. The subject concerned was ancient discipleship for modern Christians.

The February meeting included a presentation by the Revd. John Naude on how to become a more inclusive church recognizing disabilities. It focused on the practicalities and not the legal issues. Following this meeting John hosted a training day in March helping us to discover how we could empower disabled people and not make them feel inferior. There is an article on this in the current edition of Comment.
